To see other things we need a luminous object as a source of light. Light travels from the luminous source to the object and then to our eyes. In the process the character of the light may be changed. Some of the so called "white light" from the sun bounces off grass to become "green" light.

C. Properties of Light What is light? This question has been debated for many centuries. The sun radiates light, electric lights brighten our darkness, and many other uses of light impact our lives daily. The answer, in short, is light is a special kind of electromagnetic energy. The speed of light, although quite fast, is not infinite.

In optics, the refractive index or index of refraction of a material is a dimensionless number that describes how light propagates through that medium. It is defined as  $n = \frac{c}{v}$ , where  $c$  is the speed of light in vacuum and  $v$  is the phase velocity of light in the medium. For example, the refractive index of water is 1.333, meaning that light travels 1.333 times faster in vacuum than in the water.
